Love your effects pedals? Then show them some love! The PB1000 protects up to 12 of your favorite stomps*, and keeps them ready to rock at a moment's notice. This rugged suitcase-style pedal board comes with everything you need, including an integrated power supply and enough audio and power cables to interconnect up to 12 devices. The removable cover can even be locked (locks not included) for a double layer of protection.

It's All About Connections

This pedal board makes hooking up twelve 2.5" x 4.5" pedals as easy as hooking up just one (of course, if you're using pedals that aren't 2.5" x 4.5", the snug foam padding can be cut to accommodate pedals of varying shapes). The PB1000 includes ¼" patch cables, so you can leave your pedals connected to one another, ready to pass signal even when you're transporting them. It also comes with 1 x 12 daisy-chain cabling, so that when you plug in the 1.7 A power adapter, all your pedals receive power. Meanwhile, all cabling remains safe and free of strain. With the PB1000 – your effects chain is always safe and organized.

The Ins and Outs

Connect your guitar, bass or keyboard to the single ¼" Input in the upper right corner of the board. A pair of ¼" "From Effects" jacks in the upper left corner allow you to connect stereo effects, and two ¼-inch "Output To Amp" jacks send a left and right stereo signal out to up to two amps.

When it is time to load out, just unplug the power supply, disconnect your guitar and amp, put the lid back on the PB1000 and slide the locking latches back into place. The high-impact plastic casing provides the perfect protection for your valuable investment in tone!
